Prayer for Vision

O Lord, open thou mine eyes... Taken from Good Business
Let me see beyond the quick satisfaction of hate to the long joy of forgiveness.

Let me see beyond appetite to the pleasure of self-control.
Let me see beyond greed to the luxury of giving.

Widen my horizon. Give me largeness of heart.
Let me not love the one woman less, but through her the welfare of all women.

All around and about my own children stand innumerable children everywhere; may my vision reach them, that I may strive to live for them also.

Let me see past revenge unto the strength and wisdom of forgiveness.
Let me see past blinding pride to sunny healthfulness of humility.

Let me see past profit to usefulness.
Past success to self-approval.

Past passion to poise;
Past the heat of desire to the light of renunciation;

Past the glare of power to the abiding beauty of service;
Past the rank, poisonous growth of self to the fragrance and flowers of unself.

Take my life out of the narrow pit and set me upon a high mountain.
I want to see, to see, and not forever to be a prisoner of prejudice, a hat of blind custom, a mote of ignorance, a convict in the penitentiary of fear, a frightened rat in the house of superstition.

Let me see beyond the boundaries of my country unto all the world;
Past competition to co-operation, past war to world government;

Past party to patriotism;
Past patriotism to humanity.

Let me see past the night to the renewing dawn;
Past gloom to glory, past death to eternal life, past the finite to the infinite;

Past men and things and events to God.
—Dr. Frank Crane.

THE BIBLE TODAY

The Bible has retained its place as the world's most important book, says a recent UNESCO report from Paris. The 14th annual edition of the "Index Translationum" covering the year 1961, shows the Bible against 288 times the year before.

In the second place were the works of Lenin with 188 translations. Over 1,000 translations are now reported on some 450 languages. The Canadian Bible Society's translation department of one of the larger Bible Societies of the world, these translations are, in some instances, putting a language into writing for the first time.

Others are re-translating and revising older translations that have become outdated. Still others are adding books of the Bible that have already had some portion of Scripture in the language.

It is estimated that there are at present over 1,000 languages in which no portion of Scripture has been translated.

The New Testament is now available in 288 languages and at least one book of the Bible, 1,200 languages.

No Fence-Sitter, Please!

ANGELIC CHURCHMAN

Concise new Parliament is not one that fills either well-being. The uproar over the budget provided money members with still further opportunity to display their aptitude for childish remarks and inanities.

The New Democratic Party set a dangerous precedent by refraining from voting on the non-confidence motion of the Conservatives. While it is possible to excuse their action on the basis that a new election was avoided, indeed perhaps that such incidents will be infrequent. Members of the House of Commons are elected to deal with the business set before them, and deal with it they must, unpleasant though it may be for both the party concerned and the country.

If members are unable to accept their responsibilities, those who elected them may wonder why they did, and will take the necessary steps to correct the situation in the next election.

MASTITIS TESTING
Mastitis is still Alberta's number one infectious disease among dairy cattle despite increased knowledge in this area and advances in drug treatment.

Dr. H. N. Vance, Assistant Director of the Alberta Veterinary Service Branch, says that "mating mastitis problems on the basis of 'one cow, treat one' is not satisfactory for several reasons. The untimely use of antibiotics, the use of the wrong drugs and too short treatment periods are all responsible for the failure of the method."

Spotting an infected cow in the early stages, says Dr. Vance, is an essential part of any good mastitis control program. Care fully maintaining milking machine equipment and milking sanitation are other extremely important aspects of a good control program.

Starting July 1st, the Alberta Veterinary Laboratory will be taking over all mastitis testing from the Dairy Laboratory. For the past several years this program has been carried out jointly by the two branches. It is designed to give dairymen an opportunity to check their herds by periodic testing and to provide them with professional advice on the type of treatment and control program best suited to their particular needs.

There are quite a number of Alberta herds under the mastitis program but judging by the prevalence of this disease there should be many more. Dairymen wishing to participate can get information and agreement forms from the Veterinary Services Branch and the Dairy Branch of the Department of Agriculture or from district agriculturalists and veterinarians.

INFLUENZA AND BLAZE ORANGE FOR SAFETY

At the 8th biennial convention of the Canadian Association of Game Warden held last week at Banff, a resolution was passed endorsing the adoption of "Paseo" blaze orange as a safety colour for hunters in the field and for highway crews. While some provinces have already adopted blaze orange as a hunting safety colour, others still retain the use of scarlet caps and jackets.

The City of Calgary recently instituted a regulation which limits the use of blazes on orange between and safety vests by all construction crews working in traffic. According to Mr. A. Grisdale, Calgary safety supervisor, a marked decrease in traffic speed past points of construction and repair has been noted since the inception of this program.

Other resolutions passed at the convention dealt with the increased safety through "daylight for highway driving" and the recent adoption by automobile manufacturers of amber turning signals for higher visibility.

The three-day convention concluded Sunday night with the installation of Dr. Don Price from Guelph, Ont., as president of the Canadian Association of Game Warden for the next two years.

JACOBS WINS AWARDS

Peter Jacobs of Jacobs Studio in Drayton Valley was crowned as the Alberta Professional Photo - year in Calgary. The highlights of the convention was the judging of photographs entered in competition by the leading photographers and studios in western Canada and the northwestern United States. Of the approximately 1500 photos entered, about 10% are of high enough quality to be accepted. Mr. Jacobs was honored by having three of his photographs

Under a point system administered by the 51-year-old association, awards can be achieved by only after many years of consistent excellence as well as for general excellence of photographic artistry and craftsmanship.

The photographer earns merit points towards his Master's degree by having his work selected for exhibit at National P.P.P.A. conventions, for demonstration and state groups, for serving as a P.P.A. official and for lecturing at the P.P.A. - sponsored Winona School of Photography, Winona Lake, Indiana.

Of the 25,000 professional photographers in this country, only 4% persons have earned the title Master of Photography, during the 25 years since its inception.

Some 5,000 professional photographers from all parts of Canada the United States and abroad attend these conventions, which offer a program of sessions dealing with the technical problems of portraits, commercial - illustration, and industrial photography.

The artist has a routine while driving along a country road. Anxious to do the right thing, he located the farmer who owned it and said, "I just ran over your rooster and I'm willing to replace him."

"Fine," the farmer replied, "let's hear you work on that rooster. It's hard for a bled to make hay, once it starts rainin'!"

Housewife: "Can you fix this fender so that my husband will never have to beat me?" Garage Mechanic: "No, but I can fix it so that you can ask him in a few days how he beat it."

and something that should be read by everyone at least once. It complements the Red Cross swimming instruction in excellent fashion. It gives incomparable advice on the different phases of aquatic water to swim, on supervision and the world's greatest lifesaving techniques, on diving and the different swimming strokes, on first aid, artificial respiration as well as on boating safety, buoyancy and water skiing among other things. In my mind this is a book that should belong to everyone taking part in one phase or another of aquatic activities. This marvelous manual certainly fills a crying need in our day and Harry and Ethel Zolmer had visited from many southern California recently in the person of their daughter, Sylvia and her husband "Scout" Hamblin, of San Mateo, California.

The Hamblins spent two days in Drayton Valley and they like this section of the country very much. They came here over the Rogers Pass and thought it was a beautiful stretch of country. They expect to come back after the Rogers Pass route is completed as they feel that too will be a magnificent drive.

Swimming Pool Program Bomb Under Bridge

Report by Mike Gombey

One quarter of the aquatic season has come and gone. It is a brief season in this country of ours where the rapidly changing season brings the summer chill all too soon and before you know it the good old summer is time has gone. All too soon the 1968 swimming season in Drayton Valley will be but a memory.

As the pool doors are closed for the last time in September under the swimming season and the aquatic program presented will go down in local recreation history with its successes and its failures. It is a good and its bad characteristics. It is the memories what they will be thing, the local swimming program will be remembered as a conventional time to say the least. Now lively controversy and constructive criticism is good and has a definite place and a definite value in our democratic society. No person or no group is right all the time nor is any person or group wrong all the time.

Everyone has constructive ideas which if expressed at the right time, in the right place and to the right people can be valuable and stepping stones in the promotion of democratic living and the improvement of the organization of community life.

The main topic of controversy so far in the operation of our swimming pool seems to revolve around the swimming lessons and the $5.00 fee charged for the twelve-lesson course.

The views on this subject are various. Some feel that the fee is too high, others feel it is reasonable. Some feel that the fee should be waived for children, others feel that the fee should be increased for adults. Some feel that the fee should be based on the cost of the program, others feel that the fee should be based on the value of the program. Some feel that the fee should be based on the income of the person, others feel that the fee should be based on the age of the person.

Some feel that the fee should be based on the number of lessons, others feel that the fee should be based on the cost of the pool, others feel that the fee should be based on the cost of the program. Some feel that the fee should be based on the value of the program, others feel that the fee should be based on the income of the person, others feel that the fee should be based on the age of the person.
